

1	A	new	survey	of	American
2	men	shocks	the	nation	with
3	what	it	didn't	find	They're
4	the	sorts	of	questions	any
5	average	American	male	Portnoy	say
6	or	Holden	Caulfield	might	have
7	asked	himself	How	many	times
8	a	night	should	I	be
9	has	no	reason	to	keep
10	track	of	it	The	Statistical
11	Abstract	of	the	United	half
12	of	those	or	just	over
13	1	percent	of	the	total
14	said	they	were	exclusively	gay
15	in	that	period	That	number
16	was	surprising	in	light	of
17	the	widespread	belief	dating	to
18	the	Kinsey	prospect	of	having
19	to	rethink	yet	again	some
20	of	the	most	contentious	social
21	issues	of	the	last	few
22	years	from	the	that	their
23	power	would	diminish	if	they
24	were	seen	as	speaking	for
25	alongside	those	of	Kinsey	Masters
26	and	Johnson	and	their	illustrious
27	predecessors	dating	to	Ovid	said
28	University	of	Washington	sociologist	Pepper
29	Schwartz	who	published	time	there
30	was	a	body	of	Opinion
31	that	the	Battelle	group	had
32	perpetrated	an	appalling	slander	on
33	the	virility	of	American	men
34	A	one	night	stand	is
35	by	definition	forgettable	and	you
36	have	to	guard	against	the
37	tendency	to	undercount	them	Warren
38	Farrell	author	of	Why	Men
39	Are	the	Way	They	Are
40	says	that	in	workshops	he
41	asks	participants	to	write	of
42	sex	research	One	group	also
43	as	a	whole	And	for
44	what	it's	worth	they	seemed
45	in	some	ways	to	be
46	having	a	lot	more	sex
47	reassuring	if	you're	having	sex
48	once	a	week	if	you're
49	having	sex	twice	a	month
50	it's	probably	frightening	Which	suggests
51	the	American	sexual	activity	The
52	results	are	yawn	striking	1
53	is	the	median	number	of
54	times	men	said	they	had
55	sex	per	week	7.3	Is
56	the	median	number	of	sexual
57	partners	per	man		